STABLER MEAT MARKET

223 Mitchell Street

—A horse driven on a farm this morning frightened the stabler meat market on Mitchell street and dashed down Petoskey street, and up Lake at a speed that would have made Dan Patch look like an old side-wheeler. At the crossing of Petoskey and Lake street the horse fell, the mixer re-throwing him of the weight of the back part of the vehicle when the race was resumed. A sensational stop was made by former police officer John Heintz, at the corner of Lake and Howard streets.
